DIRECTION B

ARCHIVE is a room built around what it cannot show. Every absence is titled, dated, measured and attributed, so the institution abstracts its own space rather than the cultures it holds. The most interesting of the three documents, and the one that centres the limitation instead of the work.

THE PROPOSITION

- A ROOM, NOT A PAGE
- ABSENCE IS THE SUBJECT
- EVERY VOID IS NAMED

RISK

- ONE READING ONLY
- COPY-HEAVY, NO WRITER BUDGETED
- WORST PATH AT 75% FINISHED

DIRECTION B · THE ABSENT OBJECT

A ROOM AROUND AN ABSENCE.

ABSENT OBJECTS

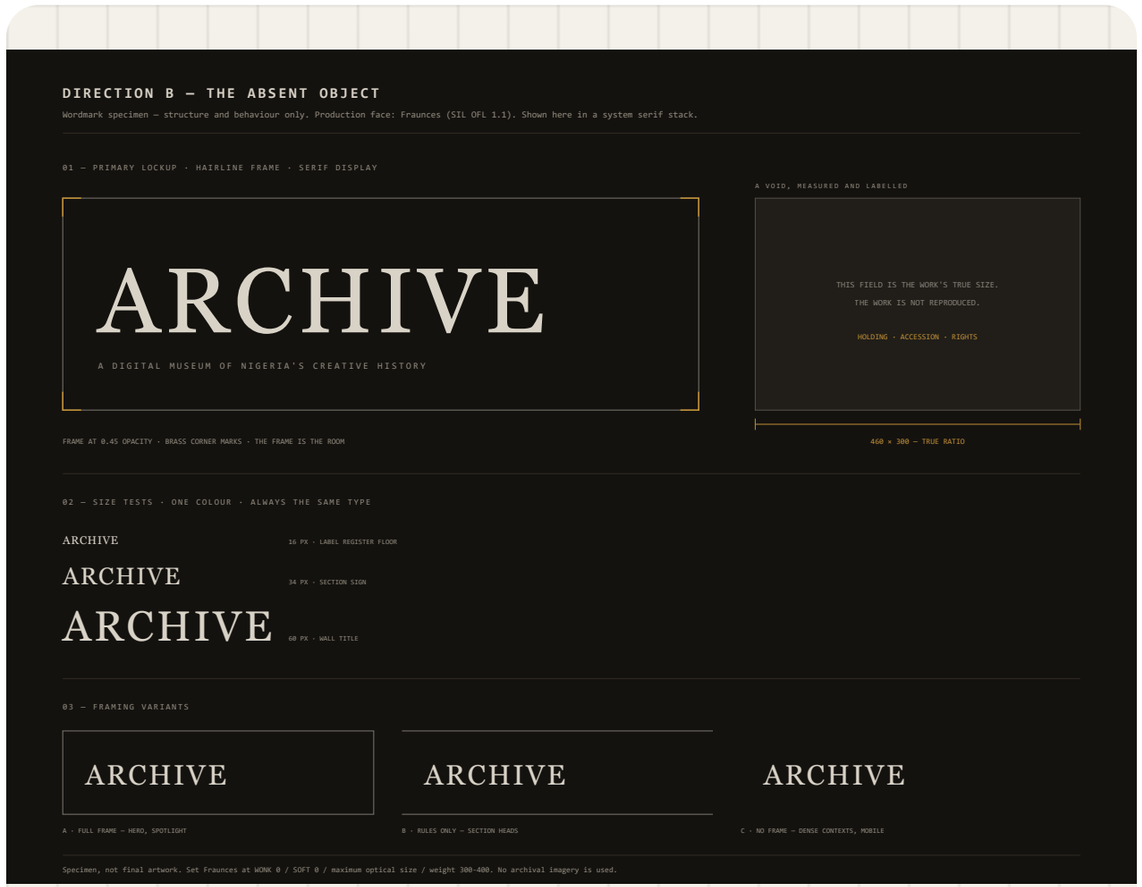

A hairline-framed lockup in a wall-label register, with measured voids that carry aspect ratio, dimension lines and the holding institution. Its one transferable idea — never let an absence be silent — is imported into the recommended direction, where it costs almost nothing.

REGISTER

- HAIRLINE FRAME
- HIGH CONTRAST
- LABEL, NOT HEADLINE

GROUND

- WARM BLACK
- MEASURED VOIDS
- WAYFINDING NUMBERS

SPECIMEN · STRUCTURE AND BEHAVIOUR, NOT FINAL ARTWORK
